Report

August 16th is observed as Sok Diwas (Sorrow Day) in Assam to mourn the victims of the Dhemaji bomb blast in 2004, which occurred during an Independence Day celebration and killed many children and others. The day serves as a pledge to promote tolerance and non-violence, an initiative supported by various government departments and observed annually. Binandi Chandra Medhi College, Ramdia has observed the day today holding a stand-up meeting with the gathering of teaching and non-teaching staff of the college along with the students. Principal Dr. Biswajit Das narrates the aforesaid event and asks everybody present to keep silent for one minute for mourning the victims in the bomb blast.
